A quick look at bravelyrootedcoaching.com

bravelyrootedcoaching.com · Bernadette McKeever · Salt Lake City, UT

Hi Bernadette — we ran a quick, free check on your website to see how it's performing for visitors. Short version: your site is doing several things really well, and there's one specific, fixable issue that's likely costing you visitors on their phones before they ever get to read your story.

WORKING WELL

Two things you don't need to worry about 100/100

Found on Google
Your site is set up correctly for search — the technical basics that help new clients find you are all in place.

98/100
Usable for everyone
Your site works well for visitors using screen readers or other assistive tools — one small, easy fix left.

ONE THING WORTH FIXING

On a phone, your homepage takes about 15–19 seconds to load

We tested your site the way most of your visitors actually see it — on a phone. Here's what a real visitor experiences:

~15s
before any content appears

~19s
before the page is actually usable

Most visitors decide whether to stay on a site within the first few seconds. A wait this long means a real share of the people who click your link — from Google, Instagram, or a referral — never see your message at all.

> The cause is simple: the photos on your homepage aren't compressed for the web, so a visitor's phone has to download an unusually large amount of data just to show the page. It's a one-time fix, not a symptom of anything deeper being wrong with your site or your content.

What a phone visitor eventually sees — the design is great, it's just slow to arrive.

THE OTHER SIDE: COST

You'd also pay less to host it — for good

Separate from the speed fix — you're currently on a hosting plan priced for far more than a site like yours needs.

What we'd actually do

- ✓ Compress and properly size the photos on your site — same look, a fraction of the data
- ✓ Move hosting to a faster setup and get your load time down to a couple of seconds
- ✓ Point your domain at the new host — no rebuild, no downtime, nothing changes for you day-to-day
- ✓ Keep it backed up and maintained — at half your current rate, guaranteed for as long as you stay with us

Want this fixed? Reply and we'll walk you through exactly what it'd look like for your site — no cost or commitment to just talk it through.

And this is really just the start of what we do — our mission is helping small businesses like yours put AI and technology to work and grow. If you've got other ideas for your business, we're the ones to call.
